THE ONLY WAY

Many Norway Citizens Have Discovered It.

Just what to do when the kidneys are affected, is a question that concerns both young and old. Weak kidneys neglected in childhood lead to life-long suffering. People of advanced years, with less vitality, suffer doubly. In youth or age, languor, backache, urinary irregularity, dizziness and nervousness make life a burden.

There is one remedy that acts directly on the kidneys and cures these troubles. Doan's Kidney Pills owe their world-wide fame to the fact that they cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Follow the example of this Norway citizen and you will be convinced that this is so.

C. C. Deapborn living on Pleasant street, South Paris, Me., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and think so highly of them that I am perfectly willing to give my name to be published in their favor. I only hope it may be the means of bringing relief to some one suffering as I have suffered. For a long time I was troubled by a dull pain in my back. My kidneys did not act in a proper manner and the secretions were very unnatural in appearance. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from F. A. Shurtleff & Co.'s drug store, used them in accordance with the directions, and they helped me a great deal. I am going to continue using this remedy and hope to be permanently cured." $1.32

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and no other.

The Parson's Sabbath Breaking.

On the grave of Parson Williams

The grass is brown and bleached; It is an old story of the winter. Since he lived and laughed and preached But his memory in New England No winter snows can ever efface. Of his goodness and his droilness Countless legends linger still. And among these treasured legends I hold this one as dear.

How he got in a Deacon Crosby's hay On a Sunday morn'g. He was midway in a sermon, When a sound of distant thunder Broke the quiet of the place.

Now the meadows of the Crosbys Lay full within his sight. As he glanced from out the window, Which stood open on its right. And the green, fragrant haycocks By acres there did stand; Not a foot like the Deacon's Far or near in all that land.

Quick and loud the claps of thunder Went rolling through the skies, And the parson saw the lightning Looking out with anxious eyes; And he said to his wife, "The parson, And called with might and main, 'We must get in Brother Crosby's hay, 'Tis our duty now must plain!'"

And he shut the great red Bible, And tossed his sermon down, And the great gust went whistling, Than the parson to that town. And he ran now to the meadow With all his strength and speed, And the congregation followed, All bewildered in his lead.

But the Deacon's hay was dry, And such sights as this, I ween, Of a parson and his people, New England never has seen. With a will they worked and shouted, And cleared the fields apace, And the parson led the throng, While the sweat rolled down his face.

And it thundered, fiercer, louder, And the great gust went whistling, But the hay was under cover, And the parson had worked best. Not a moment had he wasted, The rain was falling fast.

And the parson saw the people Through the village breathless passed. And again in paw and pulpit, Their places took composed. And the parson preached his sermon To "thittentally," where it closed.

When the services were ended The people, though wet as rain, And among the sternly pious There were little comments made. And the good old Deacon Crosby, A meek and Godly man, Hardly dared to say a word, Had been saved on such a plan.

But the parson came down, striding In haste, the narrow aisle, And the Deacon's bent old shoulders He patted with a smile. And he said: "No fear my brother, Least God think it a sin; For He sent the sun to make you hay, And your friends to get it in!"

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and saps the vitality, beauty, vigor and cheerfulness. It is a scourge when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root. Home of Swamp-Root, 333 North Second St., Portland, Me. For further information apply to including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THE HIGHLAND FARMS.

A Reply to the Child.

Some few weeks ago I was severely criticized by writers from Berlin and Fryeburg, upon my views on "Washing-ton trips and graduating exercises." They informed us that they had been going to school. It was needless to say that, as the articles showed they were written by children and were intended to pose Grammar school children at that, not that they were young men.

We are usually interested in what children write, many answering things at times. One instance: parents owing them a Washington trip. What does the child mean?

Now I attended the high schools at Norway and South Paris thirty four to eight years ago and it never entered our minds of poor farmer boys that their parents owned us a Washington trip, but rather, we felt that we owed our parents our leisure time to assist them when not attending school, but our parents not only allowed us "one good time" but a good many of them, hundreds of games of base ball, occasionally a walk and excursion.

Amusing that child can tell us how high the monument is and how many steps he had to make to get to the top of it, very essential that must be in our education. In these days of the public press the majority of civilized men depend upon a comparatively few for information and what we get from them is one form of education, it is not particularly necessary that they should travel and see these things.

Now, there is one thing I shall agree with the boy, that parents should endeavor to send their children to high school. I have sent and am sending six children to high school and expect to send more. It is not necessary that school near. It is evident the child from Berlin is quite precocious. I don't know about his moral character, but he must be very much like that "boy book" by some called the "Good Book," tells about some ten thousand years ago, what wonderful things he taught the Jews.

Some years ago, and few at that. Ex-Gov. Long of Massachusetts I think made this statement. "The schools are not fitting the pupils with what is necessary to go out into the world as that they received many years ago," and a great many others have made the same statement. Now perhaps if our learned men and women should hear of this remarkable child they would go great expense, if necessary, to get the wisdom that falls from his lips.

The child says the district school is past, the high school is passing away, and says this is as it should be. What does he mean? What would he prob-ably be attending of the poor man's child at school?

We are not quite ready to say good bye to the old red school house and high school. It is encouraging to the parents to be told that their children never will amount to much unless they go to college; but isn't the fact right or the contrary? Aren't the successful men of the present, as those of the past were, without college education?

I think the child is in error. When he makes this statement that "all" the up-to-date educators commend the Wash-ington trip. They must be ignorant at county high schools.

I think it is in rather poor taste for some members of the graduating classes to go to the principal to encourage and urge them to make the trip; knowing that many ought not to go to that expense.

I think some colleges advise the grad-uate to take a European trip, but county high schools need not ape them. I never have taken a trip of this nature I will acknowledge, and perhaps, as he says, I do not absorb knowledge as the average boy, but I have found in my contact with high school graduates a wonderful lack of practical education as well as a general knowledge of this world and its affairs.

The child from Berlin seems to have a gentlemanly (?) way of criticizing my article. I suppose it is in keeping with the rest of the noble qualities that he must possess.

Mrs. James Eastman and some re-turned from Bath on Monday, having been away nearly two months.

Mrs. Mabel Evans Anderson and two children are at A. H. Evans'. Mr. An-derson has returned to Philadelphia.

Prof. W. A. Robinson and family of Arlington have rooms at the Alumni House and board with Mrs. Buzzell.

Jessie Chapman of Lovell, who is on the teaching force of Portland and who is spending her vacation at home, vis-ited her aunt, Mrs. Owen Eastman.

A detachment from the Fifth U. S. infantry from Plattsburg, N. Y., to the number of 125 men marched through the village en route to Augusta where they will be in camp for some weeks. They are camped for the night on the farm of Clarence Osgood, proceeding to Bridgton next morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips spent last Thursday with the Eastmans at their camp. Mrs. Phillips leaves on the 5th of August for Salt Lake City as dele-gate-at-large to the National Convention of the Ladies of the G. A. R., which convenes in that city, Aug. 9-14 in con-nection with the National Convention of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The North American Review for Aug-ust presents a number of timely and striking articles. "The Church and Socialism," by the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, is a discussion of those subjects by a clergyman who has endeavored in the past year or two to bring the two together. Mr. Gilbert E. Jones contrib-utes a pertinent article on "Some Im-pediments to Woman Suffrage." "Stu-dent Activities" is the subject of a read-able article by Theodore Stanton. "Oliver Wendell Holmes" is the theme of a bri-liant study of that writer by W. G. Bal-lantine. Ralph B. Larkin contributes a brief scientific article on "The Approach of Halley's Comet."

Raising Beans in Maine.

How It Is Being Done Scientifically and Successfully.

Years ago the bean crop of Maine, was one of the staples, but gradually other sections pushed to the front, the price dropped to some extent, and the Maine farmer decided—as he had in the case of corn—that he could buy cheaper than he could produce them.

This idea of buying cheaper from the west than an article could be produced in the east, coupled with the fact that the hay press would in a few days put the crop in shape to enable the farmer to put its value into his pocket in dollars without the trouble of feeding stock through the cold winter, brought the agricultural interests of Maine to a point, where the pendulum could swing no longer in that direction and the re-action came.

Our streets are no longer filled with teams loaded with baled hay, but teams loaded with cans of cream going to the creamery take their place, and the Maine farmer now knows—that is, the pro-gressive farmer—that with scientific cultivation, he can produce all of the staple crops in Maine at a good profit, at the same price that is now paid for the western products coming into our market.

We have purchased corn from the west, taking the money from our pockets that we needed at home, contributing to the success of the western agriculturist, until the price has increased to such an extent that corn is not so much one of the most profitable crops in Maine.

Maine is capable of producing every bit of the wheat necessary to make flour for home consumption, and that too at a profit on the present prices.

We have been feeding the feed from the station to our farms, when we could have produced enough silage and roots to meet our needs right at home.

We have purchased the beef and mutton and pork from the west to our own detriment and the degrading of our pop-ets. Even beans for which Maine be-came famous, a crop that when properly fertilized and cultivated grows here as nowhere on earth, have been supplied us for years from Michigan, New York and other States.

We have been in a Rip Van Winkle condition, but the morn of our awaken-ing has come, and the day of increasing activity and prosperity is at hand.

This year sees large acreages of corn, wheat, greater fields of potatoes, etc., all telling the story of Maine's awakening.

Now we learn with pleasure, that the growing of beans on a large scale is being successfully taken up, and we be-lieve the time will soon approach when beans will not only be produced in in-creasing quantities, but will again be-come one of our leading productions.

Special crops require special fertilizers, that is, special combinations of chemi-cal ingredients, and with the One-Mort-har Company's recipe in Belfast, our farmers can have any combination, any special fertilizer they may desire, mixed in proper proportions and supplied them at a reasonable cost, as the cost of trans-portion of the finished product will be entirely eliminated.

The following article from the Record of Brunswick, tells of bean raising on a large scale by the Brunswick Bean Co.

Scarcely ever has there been an at-tempt about here to raise beans on a large scale, but now the time has come, ably in the town of Brunswick have they been planted so extensively as by the Brunswick Bean Co. the present season. They mixed the chemicals themselves for the fertilizer used. They made up a formula which they believed would suit their needs, based upon information from the Experiment Station at Orono, and it seems to be doing the beans great good. They came up strong and even of good color, and they have grown right along without a hitch. Now they are blossoming.

The chemicals used for the six acres were 300 pounds nitrate of soda, 2,400 pounds acid phosphate, 1,000 pounds muriate of potash, 300 pounds of dried blood, 2,500 pounds of land plaster. The latter was used in such large quantity with the idea of helping conserve the natural moisture of the soil, which is very light, sandy soil. These chemicals were mixed on the barn floor, about one-third of the quantity a time. The heavy bulky ingredient was dumped on the floor first and the others according to their bulk, the least bulky being spread upon the heap last. Then with a square shovel this was all shoveled over five times, thoroughly mixing it, and it was put in bags. The chemicals for the six acres cost $70.75.

The planting was done with a potato planter and the rows were made 2½ feet apart. A man rode upon the machine just the same as in planting potatoes, and he beat the beans into it. The machine dropped the fertilizer just ahead of the beans and a plow mixed it with earth all ready for the beans which were covered about two inches deep.

Two cultivations have left the field clear of weeds, hence promising shape, and the company is looking for a yield of 30 bushels to the acre at a cost of about $35 per acre, hiring everything done. They were about a day and a half doing the planting. The cost of the beans was $70.75 for the six acres, or less than $12 an acre. A potato digger will be used for harvesting. After threshing the beans, vines will probably be spread upon the ground to remain all winter and be plowed under in the spring for the benefit of the soil. In the West bean and pea vines are popular to feed out to sheep and they sell for $6 a ton or more.

The company anticipates not less than $8 a bushel for its beans and perhaps they will be worth much more. They wholesale now at $4 and $4.50.—[Waldo Co. Herald.]

Andover Water System.

Andover Water Company will turn its hydrant to the town, July 31. The Andover water works were in operation the 8th of July and the company began to install the 10th of May. Andover peo-ple took $11,000 worth of stock and bonded it for $15,000. That covers the total cost.

The water is taken from Stony Brook, 2½ miles from the village to the head gates. There are 107 pounds pressure to the square inch. The water is used for all domestic and general uses and for fire protection.

Religious Services.

Religious services conducted by Rev. F. Tower, Rector of the Episcopal church of North Conway, were held in the Lakeside schoolhouse in this place and were well attended by an apprecia-tive audience.

The services were opened by singing in chorus of the old familiar and fa-vorite Coronation, All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name, followed by the usual or-der of prayer and responsive reading of the common prayer for the day. Rock of Ages, old and clear to every Christian heart, was sung by every one possessed of a voice.

Mr. Tower read a portion of the 14th chapter of St. John's Gospel and for special thought used the words of Philip, Lord show us the Father and it sufficeth us, and the answer of the Master, Have I been so long time with you and yet hast thou not known me, Phillip? He that hath seen me hath seen the Father.

Without manuscript or note, Mr. Tower, in an able and earnest discus-sion, presented the claim of the Master to the homage and worship of mankind as the personal representative of the Heavenly Father for all time, revealing the charac-ter of God attractively in its greatness and goodness.

Newman's beautiful hymn, Lead Kind-ly Light was sung and the benediction by the preacher following the singing of a sweet vesper hymn, Now the Day Is Over, closed a session which must have been helpful to those who listened or participated in its lessons.

Notice was given that Rev. Mr. Wilson of Fryeburg would conduct the meeting of Sunday, August 1, at 3 p. m.

A SOUL IS SAVED

or the Inebriate is placed on the line of Salvation when the individual has taken the Keeley treatment. Those who back-slide into error are those who do not place as high an estimate upon the Cure as they should, or likely have made up their minds that they are not quite ready to cease tampering with alcoholic drinks, but have a great desire to taste of it through curiosity, but have no craving for it whatever. They are un-stable in mind with little real object in life because they have not set their aims high enough to absorb their mind, soul and body in the noble work of learning to know themselves and their relation to God. The burdens of life on the alcoholic line are easily and quickly removed from the individual patient, and he is restored to his normal con-dition in bodily vigor—mental powers of action, thoroughness, mental powers of quietness within a very few days' treatment.

The backslider or those that relapse are thoroughly cured every time they take a course of Keeley treatment, and after they have relapsed the second time the evidence that they do not want to remain cured, or have not got brains enough to desire to live a sober life, or are ineligible for a Keeley Institute.

Those who sincerely desire to be cured and have had enough of drunkenness and its bad effects respect the Cure, and do not relapse. The Keeley Cure solicits this latter specified class. $1-34
